Massive spray day in the U.K. perhaps seeding the rain or prepping the way for the big system that's due to sweep across from tomorrow for several days.

If anyone is willing to defend that these are still normal condensation trails then I'm all ears as to your explanation of the detached bursts.

This morning above Essex, a few miles from Stanstead. A clear demonstration of trails building up a blanket of haze. No wind at all and cold with a prompt icy frost an hour after sunset.

Big spray day today over East Yorkshire. So much so that BBC Radio Humberside felt the need to put out a clarifying report and ridicule 'conspiracy theorists' like you!

RVL aviation are yet another company that boast about their spraying capabilities on their website. They say it's for treating oil spills at sea. They have top permits and clearances and similar to 2excel, talk of 'special missions' and an array of sensor capabilities.

Here they were trawling the north Lincolnshire coast at Donna Nook firing range between 1-2am in a Cessna. To what end..? I'm not sure.

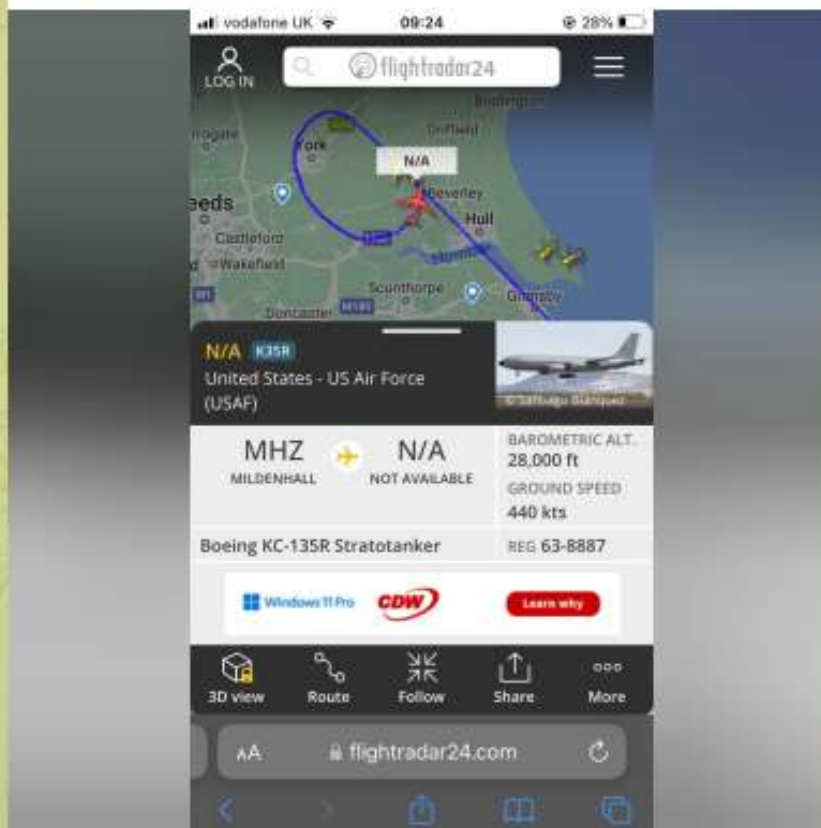

It takes greater mental gymnastics to believe that these are normal condensation trails than it does the truth.

US air force currently has two Stratotankers and at least one untracked fighter jet over East Yorkshire. In 1996 a report was produced subtitled 'Owning the Weather in 2025'

Another parhelion/20' halo glare. The effect is more pronounced when seen in the flesh. The U.K. is set to see yet another deluge this week.

There is a lot more talk these days on TV weather forecasts of the jet stream and its influence on our weather systems. I believe this is what the climate engineers are playing with and they can't help but tell us; a kind of duper's delight.

By spraying areas and irradiating them with frequencies they can direct the flow of the jet stream and so influence low/high pressure systems and their direction.

They also seed the rain by spraying micro particles which act as condensation nuclei.

More storms, more floods, 'record' weather.. all part of the climate narrative to drive you into serfdom.

'Apseritas' clouds over East Yorkshire an hour ago. Expect heavy weather. These are the new type of clouds only discovered a few years ago 🙄

Apparently very rare, I see them about once a month.

Record rainfall here in Northern Ireland due to intensive cloud seeding. Every single cloud here came out of the back of an aeroplane.

February 3rd, 2023. From 12:00 East Yorkshire was quickly blanketed in trails. Around 10-20 commercial planes left the trails which were accompanied by some localised military arial activity.

Unknown craft flying at cloud level in erratic patterns. Today's sky is a mish mash of different irradiated clouds

'Ello 'ello... 2excel aviation (the self proclaimed spray and electronic warfare specialists) are flying rings over the Humber while 4x mystery jets fly in close sequence up the east coast. They're not passenger planes; numbered LX41,42,43,44 and this is not a corridor route that is frequently travelled.. in fact one of them was meandering off a straight course as in picture. This flyover occurred around the same time that the sky cleared after two whole days of wintry cloud cover.

2 Excel aviation, the company that boasts its specialist spraying and electronic warfare capabilities on its website, flies low and does a lap of the cloud which itself is showing unequivocal signs of EMF modulation.

7/2/23 fighter jets fly manoeuvres through a well established layer of irradiated chaff

The usual routine plays out virtually every day. Clear morning succumbs to trails by lunch which then take on frequency-modulated forms and are aggravated by military jets and or 2excel aviation fly-overs.

Not sure where this is but these chemtrails are unbelievable!

Can anyone still refute their existence! 🤔
